Parrot

There was a mild-mannered preacher who just retired. Friends noticed he seemed a bit depressed and unsure about what to do with himself.

So, they suggested he get a pet, thinking he'd want a dog or cat. So, the retired preacher went to a local pet store and saw a "for sale" sign for exotic parrots. The preacher had a particular weakness for buying things on sale, so he purchased a parrot.

Now, the parrot had previously been owned by someone else and had a bad attitude and worse vocabulary. Every other word was a curse word.

The preacher tried very hard to change the bird's attitude and was constantly saying polite words, playing soft music - anything he could think of. Nothing worked.

One day in a moment of desperation, he put the parrot in the freezer. For a few moments he heard the bird squawking and kicking and screaming, and then, suddenly, there was quiet. He got frightened that he might have actually hurt the bird and quickly opened the freezer door.

The parrot calmly stepped out onto his extended arm and said: "I'm sorry that I might have offended you with my language and actions and sincerely ask for your forgiveness. I will endeavor to correct my behavior."

The preacher was astounded at the bird's change in attitude and was about to ask what had changed him. Before he could ask, the parrot looked back toward the freezer and said, "May I ask what the chicken did?"
